

Join us on November 17 at 6pm for our 2021 Annual Celebration

Join us as we reflect back on 2021 and look forward to 2022. We'll be joined by three community partners who will receive awards for their amazing community work, several teens from our Teen Urban Tree Corps program, and share what we're planning for the year ahead. This event will be virtual, free, and open to the public.

RSVP for 11/17

Climate Talk: Tree Equity Tonight @ 6:30 PM

Join our Executive Director David Meshoulam and BU Graduate student Raquel Jimenez at Tower Hill Botanic Garden's upcoming webinar on Tree Equity. Using various sources of data, including environmental and demographic data, Speak for the Trees partnered with Boston University's Graduate Program in Urban Biogeoscience and Environmental Health (URBAN) to create an interactive map that explores the relationships between people, place, and tree canopy coverage in Boston. Learn more tonight.

11/6 Hyde Park Planting

Thank you to all who joined us for our last event this tree season on Saturday, November 6th in Hyde Park at the Fairview Cemetery! Volunteers rolled up their sleeves and planted 40 trees. A HUGE thank you to TD Bank and Arborday Foundation for their financial support and to Boston Parks and Recreation Department for their partnership.

We also distributed over a dozen trees to local residents. Please continue to send us images of your newly planted trees!

Share a photo and a story of your new tree
